

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Love's Luggage.

When Love shows signs of leaving,
Don't try, with tears and grieving
To win him back!
That way he'll only stay another day.
Get out his trunk without delay,
And load him quick,
Begin and put in all his gifts, keep not one token,
Gather together tender looks and words unspoken,
Drop in that vow, just anyhow, it's long been broken!
Tuck in those thrills he gives to each newcomer,
Wrap up the lightweight smile he wears in summer.

His kisses once so burning,
Are not worth returning,
"The Day you met" You'd better throw away, and then he'll say,
After he's searched in vain through till and tray,
"Could she forget?"
No matter how it hurts, throw in a laugh!
Surely he'll stop you, when you've only half
Your task completed, and will telegraph:
"To my next girl! Have missed the train—so stupid!"
Expect me when you see me, Never!
Cupid."

THE PROBLEM.

By RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Other selections from this author, his portrait, autograph and biographical sketch, have already been printed in this series.

LIKE a church; I like a cowl;
I love a prophet of the soul;
And on my heart monastic ailes
Fall like sweet strains, or pensive smiles;
Yet not for all his faith can see
Would I that cowed churchman be.
Why should the vest on him allure,
Which I could not on me endure?
Not from a vain or shallow thought His awful Jove young Phidias brought;
Never from lips of cunning fell
The thrilling Delphic oracle;
Out from the heart of nature rolled
The burdens of the Bible old;
The litany of nations came,
Like the volcano's tongue of flame,
Up from the burning core below—
The canticles of love and woe;
The hand that rounded Peter's dome
And groined the aisles of Christian Rome
Wrought in a sad sincerity;
Himself from God he could not free;
He builded better than he knew;
The conscious stone to beauty grew.

Knowest that what wove your woodbird's nest
Of leaves and feathers from her breast?
Or how the fish outbuilt her shell,
Painting with morn each annual cell?
Or how the sacred pine-tree adds
To her old leaves new myriads?
Such and so grow these holy piles,
Whist love and terror laid the tiles.
Earth proudly wears the Parthenon,
As the best gem upon her zone,
And morning ope with haste her lids
To gaze upon the Pyramids;
O'er England's abbeys bends the sky,
As on its friends, with kindred eyes;
For out of Thought's interior sphere
These wonders rose to upper air;
And Nature gladly gave their place,
Adopted them into her race,
And granted them an equal date
With Andes and with Ararat.

These temples grew as grows the grass;
Art might not obey, but not surpass.
The passive Master lent his hand
To the vast soul that o'er him planned;
And the same power that reared the shrine
Bestrode the tribes that knelt within.
Ever the fiery Pentecost
Girds with one flame the countless host,
Trances the heart through chanting choirs,
And through the priest the mind inspires,
The word unto the prophet spoken
Was writ on tables yet unbroken;
The word by seers or sibyls told,
In groves of oak, or fanes of gold,
Still floats upon the morning wind,
Still whispers to the willing mind.
One accent of the Holy Ghost
The heedless world hath never lost,
I know what say the fathers wise—
The Book itself before me lies,
Old Chrysostom, best Augustine,
And he who bent both in his line,
The younger Golden Lips or mines,
Taylor, the Shakespeare of divines,
His words are music in my ear,
I see his cowed portrait dear;
And yet, for all his faith could see,
I would not the good bishop be.

Patriotic Societies.

The board of the Virginia Society of Colonial Dames met Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Reginald Gillingham, No.
11 East Franklin Street. After the transaction of routine business, the following resolutions were adopted:

Richmond possesses few historic landmarks, but, of those which still stand, the old Bell Tower is among the most interesting.

To destroy this building would be to rob our beautiful city of one of its treasures.

Therefore, be it resolved:

I. That in preserving this landmark, the legislative assembly of Virginia will benefit future generations and increase the patriotism of those who live today.

II. A people without reverence is a people without ideals and the destruction of a vestige of past glory without good reason is a crime to a city and a State.

III. That we, the National Society of Colonial Dames of the State of Virginia, do pray the honorable Legislature of Virginia to prevent the demolition of this old building which is of the highest historic interest from the association, which connects with the early political and military history of the State of Virginia from the fact that it held the principal alarm bell and was the rallying point of the local defenders of Richmond during the war between the States.

Resolved also:

That it is the general opinion of all persons of taste that the fence which for many years has surrounded the Capitol Square, is an adornment to that park, and so far from being out of place around the public ground, resembles closely the fence with which the cultured and artistic city of Boston surrounds its much beloved Common.

Therefore, this society, speaking for its members, and, it is confidently believed for all the women of the State, earnestly begs the General Assembly not to order the demolition of either the old Bell Tower or the ancient fence around the Square and also that the gates formerly used, be replaced.
